

COLIN MOCHRIE & BRAD SHERWOOD: THE TWO MAN GROUP

April 28, 2012
Victoria Theatre

ABOUT THE TWO MAN GROUP

Colin Mochrie and Brad Sherwood, stars of the Emmy nominated "Whose Line Is It Anyway?" have teamed up to present an evening of extraordinary improvisational comedy.

Using their quick wit, Colin and Brad take contributions from the audience to create hilarious and original scenes.... Just like a live version of "Whose Line!" Throughout the evening, the show becomes truly interactive as audience members are called to the stage to participate in the fun. Their high-profile presentations have played to sold-out venues all over the country. Don't miss the most exciting comedy event of the year!

ABOUT COLIN MOCHRIE

Colin Andrew Mochrie was born in Kilmarnock, Scotland. As the son of an airline maintenance executive, his family tended to move around quite frequently. They first moved to Montreal and then to Vancouver in. He considered himself a loner during his childhood days due to his shyness, a trait that he claims he still evidently has. At 16, he was dared by a friend to join a high school play where he had the part of an undertaker. It was then when he got his first laugh (by splitting his pants) and afterwards, he "craved for nothing but more laughter." He then turned to Theatersports, where he attended an acting school for four years.

Introduced by a friend, he teamed up Ryan Stiles to do improv, who at the time was doing stand up comedy. Shortly after doing Expo '86, Colin moved to Toronto. There, he auditioned for The Second City (a famous North American comedy theater), where Ryan Stiles was working at the time. He was hired by Debra McGrath. In 1989, he and Deb got married. They later had a son, Luke, who was born sometime during 1991. Colin worked in The Second City for three years and the couple then moved to Los Angeles, where Deb worked on a TV series with Second City colleague, Linda Kash. They hated it there, and after spending their last few weeks selling off their CDs to buy diapers for their son, they moved back to Toronto.

Colin has acted in various small roles in movies and series. His first movie was "the 3D Space Epic, Space Hunter: Adventures of the Forbidden Zone, [where he] captures Molly Ringwald and utters the immortal line: 'You can ask the Chemist.'" He has also earned other small roles in movies such The Real Blonde starring Kathleen Turner and Matthew Modine. He says that he is "planning to do big movies. Unfortunately, no one is planning to hire [him] for one." His first TV series was "Downtown Saturday Night", a sketch comedy-talk show shot in Vancouver. However, he is best known for being a regular on the TV show "Whose Line is it Anyway?" which is often known as "WLiiA?" He had first auditioned for "WLiiA?" while in Toronto but hadn't made it. He auditioned again in L.A. a few years later and got the part, but he says he owes it all to Ryan [Stiles] who "probably forced them to" hire him. In April 2000, he won a Canadian Comedy Award for the best male improviser. One year later, he grabbed another Canadian Comedy Award for Best Male Performance in Television Series ("Who's Line is it Anyway?").

Colin has been an extremely busy actor. Currently he performs on stage, appears in several commercials, has done a few movies, and is often on several TV series. He is seen on repeats of "Improv Heaven and Hell." "The Drew Carey Show" as Eugene; in "Supertown Challenge" (a show spoof making fun of small towns) as the host, Dick Powell. He has also done voiceover work as a sexually ambiguous alligator and along with his wife, a hyena. Along with that, he also filmed the American version of "WLiA?" in L.A., episodes of "Blackfly" in Halifax, hosted the "Offbeat World" (a travel series), and finished voiceover work for "Seven Little Monsters." His new DVD (with Brad Sherwood) Two Man Group: Live and Dangerous Comedy came out in March 2011.

ABOUT BRAD SHERWOOD

Brad Sherwood is a regular cast member on ABC's "Whose Line Is It Anyway?" and was a regular on the British version on Comedy Central as well. His credits include "The Drew Carey Show," "The Green Screen Show," "The Smartest Guy In Town," "Jury Duty," VH-1's "I Love The 70s, 80s, & 90s," and over 100 sketch appearances on "The Tonight Show with Jay Leno."

Brad's other past credits include a season on "LA Law," "To Tell The Truth," "The Newz," guest hosting "Talk Soup," and hosting "The New Dating Game."

Brad is currently touring the world with Colin Mochrie in the very successful and critically acclaimed, two-man improv show appropriately titled An Evening With Colin Mochrie and Brad Sherwood. Their new DVD Two Man Group: Live and Dangerous Comedy will be released in March 2011.

Brad can currently be seen opposite Drew Carey as the announcer on the game show "The Price is Right."

AUDIENCE INFORMATION

Recommended for ages 13 and up. Many people have brought their 8-10 year old children to the show with no complaints. An evening with Colin and Brad is a totally improvised show. Although they do attempt to keep the show family friendly, Colin and Brad can't be responsible for audience suggestions. Therefore, we recommend you make your own judgment call based on your own child's sensitivities to bald men.
